"The Frenchman of England"

Because of his enthusiasm for the French designs, Hepplewhite was called "The Frenchman of England."

We had always associated his name with cer-tain classic sideboards and chairs until a recent trip to England in search of new, or rather "old" ideas. There we were introduced to certain sump-tuous davenports and chairs as the finest work of the great designer.

There is no denying the elegance and beauty of French Hepplewhite for formal living rooms and apartments. We have reproduced a few of the best examples, which are now on display at

The news from the election board throws this whole situation into confusion, which will continue until the new precinct maps are adopted and made public.

The law is mandatory in its provision that precincts where more than 600 votes are cast must be cut down in size. In the mayoralty there were 75 precincts of that character. WESTERN REPUBLICANISM AT THE CROSSROADS.

Western Republicanism stands at the crossroa The figure is that of the farmer of the midlands waiting a guide to the haven of just deserts. Farm relief is the paramount issue in the west The road the farmer chooses will be important of light. to the destinies of the Republican party. Who is going to show him the way?

On one hand stands a faction of western leaders typified by former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of such legislation as the McNary-Haugen bill to in effect, is: "Many physicians to the contrary, we ons of the farmer's interests and advocates restore the agricultural midwest to reasonable resperity. Potent as he is as a political factor, the farmer is not likely to win the control of government he looks for. Constructive farm supporters or radicals, neither faction is likely to succeed fully at the present time. But one movement or the other is bound to grow and the one that grows will take the farmer with it.

The eventual choice of a presidential nominee till lies with industrial and eastern Republicanism, Industrial and eastern Republicanism still holds the power to write the party's 1928 platform, and,

Western Republicanism stands at the crossroads in the person of the western farmer. If he takes the former ad he will be saved to the party. If he takes the latter he moves directly to a seat on the

There has long been a tie between organized labor in the United States and organized labor in Mexico. Now and again the relationship has been pointed out, but for the most part the details of whatever understanding exists have been kept secret. The whole thing is flavored with mystery. That American labor exercises a profound influence on Mexican labor and on the Mexican government every one knows. It has even been suggested that the American federation has had a hand in channeling the course of the United States department of state in its negotiations with

THE NEED FOR A CANCER HOSPITAL.

Of all diseases perhaps cancer is the most dread because its cause and cure are unknown. Fighting cancer is like fighting in the dark. The only hope lies in detecting it early and using the knife, radium, or the X-ray.

Annually cancer kills some 125,000 persons in th United States. The only diseases surpassing it in especially, it will write its party's platform in Chicago in 1926 tuberculosis killed 2,520 persons. 25,000 cancer cases at one time, about a > terrible because it means a lingering death and often an agonizing one. The average cancer patient lives about three years; for a great part of that time he is likely to be bedridden.

It is to meet the needs of the hundreds of cancer victims in Chicago, to help others to prevent the disease or to detect and halt it in time, and to conduct scientific research into cancer's cause and treatment that a movement has been begun under the auspices of the Chicago committee of the American Society for the Control of Cancer which has for its aim the creation of a great cancer hos pital and research center in Chicago.

For the control of that other lingering disease tuberculosis, $2,000,000 is spent each year by the city. Tuberculosis patients have their own municipal hospital. Cancer patients have no separate hospital and receive no recognition in the budget, yet their need is as great if not greater.

Advanced cancer cases come under the head of incurables; they require hospital care. But incurable homes are always filled. Oak Forest, the only public refuge, is not equipped for the care of cancer cases. And hospitals, with the constant and increasing demands made upon them by curable natients, cannot give up their beds to cancer pa tients requiring months and perhaps years of care. For the rich and the comfortably well to do a case of cancer is trying enough from the financial point of view. For the poor it is tragedy. Visitrrier. The spectacle of Mr. Mencken and the ing nurses find that of all the incurable cases attended annually, cancer cases are in the large

According to estimates by those working for the hospital, 1,500 cancer cases worthy of charitable care exist in the city today and the number is growing. Added to such a benefit, if Chicago had a great cancer hospital, would be the benefits of research, and of the popular teaching which would come from such an authoritative center.

[Convright: 1927; By The Chicago Tribune QUICK HEALING OF GRIDIRON SPRAINS.

R. HUTCHINS has been training football teams for a long time. He began before the birth of the everage college football player of today. Experience has taught him how to treat a sprained ankle so that the man with the hurt need not miss any games and very few practices. When he sees a player with a sprained ankle he first makes certain that it is a sprain and not a fracture. Sometimes an X-ray picture is necessary to settle that point. The second step in treat-ment, diagnosis being counted as the first, is to apply a cold compress to keep the acute swelling within bounds. The third step is to strap the ankle with adhesive. To do this the player sits in front of the man who is to apply the adhesive. The player's foot hangs just a little lower than the knee of the physician. The player's foot is placed on the doctor's knee. The knee, ankle, and toes point straight ahead. The foot s at an angle of 80 to 85 degrees with the leg. In other words, the toe, or front end of the foot, is slightly higher than the heel. The foot is bent outenough to throw the weight slightly toward the inner or great toe edge

The foot is strapped in this position, using one and a half inch adhesive tape of suitable length for the purpose. first tape applied starts on the back side inner side of the leg and ankle, over the instep, from the inner to the outer under the sole, up on the inner side of the foot to the top. The second strip begins about the same place on the cali d travels down the leg across the top of the instep to the inner side of the foot, and then down across and up in the opposite direction to the first strip. third strip starts on the side of the calf and comes down over the ankle. the heel, across the bottom of the heel, and up the opposite side to the level where it started. This forms a stirrup. The fourth strip is merely an anklet which holds the other strips in place.

As soon as the adhesive strips are aphe soon learns to do with no limp, and out pain or injury to the joint. He must walk with his toes pointing

That night the adhesives are removed and the sprained joint is treated with diathermy. Sometimes other forms of electricity are used. After the treatment with electricity the straps are reapplied. The player is encouraged to walk around and even to practice football within a day or two after the in-jury. He is ready for the game the following Saturday.

they miss success by such a little

You see them every day - people who seem to be always on the losing side of things. You cannot call them failures. But they always fall a little short of real success. Why is it?

Often it is just that they can't play hard enough and long enough to win! They lack the energy and endurance for that final effort which means success!

They are not really ill, these 80 per centers. They are just under par. They need greater vitality; increased resistance to infections

Science has recently discovered why the old time health-builder-cod-liver oil, so long used by physicians, is so valuable. It is due solely to its vitamin content.

Physicians advise cod-liver oil, first of all, not only to increase vitality, but also to build up resistance to various infections. In addition, it helps to prevent colds and other infections.

Many physicisms prefer one oil to all others for this purpose. Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. They know they can depend on it because it is tested and guaranteed to be exceptionally rich in the h. althprotecting Vitamins A and D.

THE WORLD Scored Nearly Half of the Circulation Gains of the Morning Field!

JOT ONLY did THE WORLD register the largest circulation increase in the standard size weekday morning paper field, both numerically and percentage-wise, but its increase was more than 49% of the combined gains of the four papers comprising this field. A comparison of the figures follows:

PAPER	Circulation 1926	Circulation 1927	Gain	Percentage of Gain	Percentage of Field
THE WORLD	284,141	335,928	51,787	18.2%	49.5%

The American	221,624	227,969	6,345	2.8%	6.0%

This is a reflection of a period marked by more consecutive big news-stories than any other period of equal duration since the World War. One event of international importance followed fast upon the heels of another. All papers increased in circulation, but the fact that THE WORLD contributed nearly half of the combined gains of the standard size morning paper field demonstrates more than ever the fact that when news of transcendent importance is afield it is to THE WORLD that New Yorkers turn in ever increasing numbers for the most authoritative, quickest and most reliable account of world events.

ordered their overtures withdrawn, and contractors doing city work intend to test in court the legality of their commissions as a result of John L. Duvall's continuation in the mayor's office while under sentence of thirty days in jail and disfranchisement for corrupt practices.

Wherever I went I was struck by the ravishing skins of the women of wealth and leisure. My hostess was a charming Senorita I had met at a friend's home in Paris. I asked her the secret.

For three generations the lovely Senoras and Senoritas of South America have used a soap they treasure for its luxurious and lovelifying lather.

Until recently their demands have taken every cake of it that could be made. But girls and women from this country, visiting there, have so delighted in that luxurious soap that they have begged to have it brought here. At last—thanks to enlarged manufacturing facilities—this has been done.

That long-prized complexion aid is Raquel Beauty Soap. Walgreen Drug Stores now introduce it to Chicago. It is truly a luxury soap—so exquisite and delightful to the skin, so soothing, softening, lovelifying. Yet—for the present at least—it is only 35 cents a cake; or a box of 3 long-lasting cakes for only $1. For all personal use—face, hands, bath, shampoo.

Fight Over Child.

Twombly, who has made a fortune in improvements on the radio, automobile and submarine, had refused to pay temporary alimony, contending his wife was depriving him of the child. The mother had sought to make him pay without giving him partial custody of the blonde haired girl.

Just how much Twombly must pay and when he will be allowed to see Gloria will be determined tomorrow, the date set by the judge for drafting and signing the order in accordance with his oral opinion.

Joel Baker, attorney for Twombly, in arguing for a low alimony order, declared he was representing a genius in mechanical creations, but a man without practical business judgment, who was practically "broke."

Resort Hostess Named.

Attorneys Dudley Field Malone and George L. Schein, representing Mrs. Twombly, argued that a man who had been spending money on Helen Wood, hostess in a sreadway dance resort, could well afford to provide amply for his wife and child.

The ruling ended a three days' hearing on the last of a series of court battles extending over two years. Mrs. Twombly's separate maintenance suit will probably be tried on its merits at this term of court.

WARDEN TELLS OF WARNING HE GAVE MRS. REMUS

Testifies He Cautioned Her Against Dodge.

Affanta, Ge., Oct. 19.—(P)—The last meeting in Atlanta between George Ranus and his wife, before the one time lawyer-bootlegger was released from the federal penitentiary, was a very affectionate one, marked by such appreciations of endearment as "honey bunch," and "bunch of sugar," Warden John W. Snook testified in a deposition taken today for use during Ranus' forthcoming trial at Cincinnati for the murder of Mrs. Remus.

an attorney representing Remus, the warden also declared that at the time of Mrs. Remus' last visit to the prison, as warned her against Franklin L. Dodge Jr., former government operative, who was instrumental in Remus' conviction on a prohibition charge. Remus has charged that during his rison term Dodge and his wife conpired together against him, dissipating a large sum of money he had entered to her care. The reference to Dodge was invoked by a question that the charge Elston. Remus' attorney.

"What did you say?"

Afraid It Would Disturb Remus.

"I told her she had better not place too much confidence in Dodge."

"Why did you say this?"

Questioned again at the afternoon session, Snook said the reason he warned Mrs. Remus about the rumors connecting her with Dodge was because he was afraid Remus would har them and they would disturb his seace of mind.

Attorney Harry Pritzker yesterday received a telegram from George Remus, formerly of Chicago, now awaiting trial in Cincinnati, O., for the murder of his wife, employing Pritzker and his father, Nicholas J. Pritzker, as attorneys to take depositions from certain Chicagoans to be used as evidence in Remus' defense.

"Remus hopes from these depositions to clear up two matters," Atterney Pritzker said. "He wants to find out if his wife deposited any of the money here which Remus says she tack from him and he also hopes to prove that Mrs. Remus and Franklin before, ex-prohibition agent, lived here agether at times. Some of the witterness will be character witnesses."

Here are ten questions on which you surely have definite opinions. They can be answered by a simple "yes" or "no". Write your own answer in one column—and your husband's in the next. If you care to, send us the result!

Certainly!
And Here is How They Prove It!

You will still find men who say "Women are more easily led than men—they like to get their opinions ready-made". But what are the facts?

The most conclusive evidence springs right from our own publishing experience. Every survey we have ever made shows that at least as many women as men read The Literary Digest every week—in other words, two million women, and girls of school age. Just what does this mean?

First—that two million women (a splendid cross section of American womanhood in all its wit and charm) are determined to study all sides of a question before making up their own minds. The Digest offers no ready-made opinions of its own. It simply states the facts of world opinion so that people of alert and independent mind can form their own judgments.

Second—it means that two million women are eager to keep their interests as broad as the whole adventure of life. For The Digest gives them the news of sports as well as politics, of the theatre as well as the pulpit, of popular science as well as foreign affairs. It gives them the richest humor and the most pointed cartoons as well as the news of events and personalities in pictures and prose.

Women Read the Digest Because "Their Interests Are Merging With Men's"

Edward Bok wrote, seven years ago, that "the interests of women and of men are being brought closer with the years, and it will not be long before they will entirely merge." Even if the two million women readers of The Digest did not prove this, we have the evidence of our eyes. Today men and women buy things together. They must vote on the same questions, even when they vote differently. They go to the same theatres and concerts. They laugh at the same cartoons and with the same humorists. They form civic clubs together. They work on the same committees.

That is why The Digest, which edits no "departments" solely for women, grips their interest as surely as men's. The Digest is edited for human beings—men, women and children. And just because it has faith in the independence of women's opinions on every human activity, the women of America respond eagerly—two million of them every week.

After each play the ball was moved back to a dry spot and the play started again from the same position. This meant that no long runs were made, but plenty of rough football was seen. The scrub line took great pleasure in

It is not held reasonable that Herb Joesting and Shorty Almquist can knock out that many Hawkeyes. Coach Ingwersen had no bear stories or blue songs at the conclusion of the last hard drill this evening. He said there would be but one change in his usual opening lineup. As Crane Tech, the west side school which is the alma mater of Koransky, Purdue's plunging full back, there is a back field star whom Crane fans swear by. And when he goes to Yale next fall he hopes to continue his brilliant gridiron record.

This Crane player not only has played three years on the grid team, but stars in track, baseball and wrestling. He is a leader in student affaira and has been chosen by his classmates to a high school office.

He is a speedy open field runner specializing in off tackle plays. He will be a graduate from Crane in January, 1928.

The material content of the west side school for Purdue is expected to make "33" as famous as Red Grange's "77." Let me say in passing that "33" has adorned the back of one C. FROSH USE "PENN PLAYS"

Like Don Culxote, Cosch A. A. Stagg has been tilting at windmills in his daily practices at the Midway this week. For the first time in his thirty-five years at Chicago, the veteran Miroon tactician early this fall signed a nonscouting agreement with Head Coach Lou Young of Pennsylvania, whose eleven will appear on Stagg field Saturday.

Why Stagg took this sudden turn has long been a mystery to the Maroons, but the daily windmill tilting that goes on at the Midway indicates the gray haired leader already has lived to regret the move.

As it is, Coach Stagg is hard put to it to find something with which to keep his athletes occupied. He put them to running signals and wind sprints, blocking and charging, running back punts and engaging in dummy serimmage about nothing at all. None of this sufficed. The gridders rapidly began to go stale and Stagg had to find something to keep them interested.

Philpot in Great Ride.

Jockey H. Philpot piloted the winner home and had to use all his riding skill to keep the colt running long enough to get the decision. He went to the white a half furtong out and ode the three year old son of Golden Broom so hard he couldn't quit. That saved the day for the big crowd. A weaker rider would have let Henry Horner quit, and possibly drop out of the money, in the hard fighting finish. It was a typical Indian summer day and the weather possibly had much to do with bringing out the big crowd. All the race specials over the Northwestern were packed and the clubhouse crowd rivaled the one on opening day, when most of Chicago's society, wealth and industry was represented. The speculation on the different races was by far the heaviest since the gates at the new track sung open. Philpot in Great Ride.

SOUND, refreshing sleep— ROAD undisturbed rest—is a pleasant anticipation for the traveler who journeys on the New Olympian or the New Pioneer Limited. He retires to a real bed with a coll spring mattress. His car glides with velves amoothness through the night—roller bearings give The MILWAUKEE trains the silent, soothing flight of a swift vacht on a calm as ing flight of a swift yacht on a calm sea. The train moves as a single unit—a new type of friction buffer makes stopping and starting an almost imperceptible change of motion.

The thoroughly modern equipment on the New Olympian and New Pioneer Limited permits natural, restful sleep. One wakes refreshed—ready for a busy business day or the daytime enjoyment of the perfectly appointed service that characterizes. The Milwaukee Road. erizes The Milwaukee Road.

THE MODERN SUBSTITUTE FOR THE WOOD SHED AND THE COAL HOD

THE wood shed of other days may have I presented an opportunity for the doing of youthful chores and offered a convenient locale for the occasional exercise of parental discipline. But the maintenance of a full wood box and the continuous stoking of a fire with its fuel was an everlasting nuisance, as any housewife who had to do it will tell you.

The old, familiar coal hod was another unmitigated nuisance, a gatherer of dust and dirt and a noisy producer of tired muscles. It has gone where the wood box went, into almost forgotten desuetude.

Gas, the perfect fuel, now cooks the meals of the nation. So common have gas ranges become, so much is their presence taken for granted, that their contribution to human comfort, like that of many other valuable commonplaces, is scarcely appreciated by those who use them.

But Gas Companies appreciate them for the business they produce. As do the holders of Gas Company securities, when they analyse the steadily increasing stability of their investments.

Stunning groups of water colors by Rockwell Kent and Randall Davey are among the attractive features. Both of these artists are modernists, Rockwell Kent in a rather melancholy, overwhelming way, and Davey in a lighter vein. Randall Davey may be remembered as the creator of the portrait of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCorn mick Jr., which, when shown a year ly or so ago at the Art institute, created some little stir.

The First Year at School.

Do you remember your first year at school? I don't mean kindergarten, but real school?

I remember mine — it was divided into two parts. The first part was presided over by a soft voiced, dark haired young woman who knew how to modulate the severe regimen of that particular school and principal to the minds and bodies of young, active, sensitive children. She made me like school.

The second half began when she left to get married and a red haired termassant took the class. She has earned her place in the black book of my childhood because she made me stay after school—horrible disgrace then—and practice writing capital 0's. I can even remember the beautiful poscelains swan and decorated wedding cake in a caterer's window before which I stopped to hide my tears on the way hours.

But even she couldn't undo the work of the dark young delty of my very first school days. I liked school.

Perhaps this is Nature's little joker, or maybe it's the brunette's consolation provided hairs have have heave how to modulate the severe regimen of that search the school half began when she left to get marked the poleen halo.

One may add a little liquidized castile scap tides the west of the seal point in the wet scalp and massaged thoroughly into the hair and onto the scalp until it is all used.

Then the hair must be rinsed in warm water—not hot. Many rinsings are needed. The best way is to use a bath spray and let a speat amount of water play on hair and scalp so that every particle of the mixture will be removed. If dried with warm that the first year be a happy one.

Are you there, in the foreground, or the beckground, watching, helping, explaining—doing everything in your power to relate school and its ways to use the spirit moves him?

Perhaps this is Nature's little fabor.

Here's a Case Where It's Better to Leave Home than to Stay BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I wonder," Blue Eyes writes, "if girls who have mothers, mothers that ions and true friends, are real companions and true friends, appreciate the blessings that are Blue Eyes is a business girl, 18. She has been motherless since the age of 5. She lives with her father and an aunt. They drink and the company that visits their home drink, too. Blue Eyes is ashamed to bring girl or boy friends into the house. She never knows when, inspired by liquor, her aunt or father will turn on one of her guests and insult him. She meets the boys away from home, consequently, and is afraid to let them accompany her to her door for fear her father will be there waiting to bawl them out." The quarreling and nagging as the result of the drinking that goes on makes Blue Eyes' home life unbearable. And her problem is whether to leave for a more wholesome atmos-phere or accept it as her duty to remain on with her parent and aunt. The aunt has reared her and provided for her, after a fashion, and when the father is sober he is kind enough. But the drinking spells are becoming more and more recurrent.

Such an atmosphere is poisonou and no young woman should be ex pected to remain in it. Leaving home, even one such as marriage of Miss Harriet Mar- Blue Eyes portrays, isn't the easies garet Hurd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. step in the world for a young woman to undertake. There is the serious
